Vizolution, a leading provider of customer experience technology, today announces that it has made the shortlist for the Wales Technology Awards 2017. The Swansea-based company has been shortlisted for 'Innovative Product of the Year'.

Vizolution provides customer experience technology to businesses working in financial services, insurance, energy and telecoms, and is working with banks such as Santander, HSBC, and RBS, as well as telecoms providers like o2 and EE. Its solutions allow customer service agents to share their screens with customers, enabling them to show, share and compare information live – effectively turning an inbound call into a face-to-face meeting. Vizolution's solutions also allows customers to electronically sign, send and receive documents as well as managing work flows, speeding up the customer journeys and allowing customers to complete transactions from the comfort of their home, while simultaneously protecting the company's compliance requirements.

Vizolution was founded in Wales and over the past five years has grown to a company of 100 people, 70 of whom are based in Wales. With offices also in London and the US, the Swansea office remains Vizolution's central hub for technology development.

Vizolution has experienced 100% growth over the last three years, and continues to have ambitious growth strategies for the near future, plus specific recruitment plans in Wales.

“The Wales Technology Awards honour companies that are helping to bring innovation to the technology industry, and we are thrilled to have made the shortlist for this year’s awards,” said Bill Safran, CEO of Vizolution.

“We are proud of our company’s Welsh heritage and were eager to achieve industry-wide recognition for the important contribution to the company’s success that our Swansea team has delivered. Being shortlisted for a Wales Technology Award will do exactly this. Building on this success, Wales will remain our main technology hub, and we have extensive plans to continue our growth in Wales over the next few years.”

Vizolution is supported by and has received investment funding from Finance Wales.
